

UPPP 133 - Environmental Law & Policy

Tuesdays & Thursdays, 12:30pm- 1:50pm
Virtual Remote Course Delivery (via Zoom)

This class introduces students to the legal sources of environmental regulation, different regulatory strategies for protecting the environment, and criteria for evaluating environmental regulation. The bulk of the course focuses on federal laws regulating air quality, water quality, species protection, and the disclosure of information about environmental impacts of development. The course will also address California's strategies for mitigating global climate change.
