The course provides an introduction to the challenges confronting cities in the twenty-first century, from urban poverty and racial inequality to global pandemics and climate change. Topics include segregation, displacement, globalization, environmental and climate justice, and social movements.